Different Applications Require Different Fluids

In choosing a transmission or drive-train fluid, whether for top-off or refill, it is important to use the right fluid. Pinnacle Oil supplies a variety of fluids developed to meet the needs of various transmission types.

Transmission builders are increasingly designing their equipment to work with special fluids. The fluids they specify are formulated to give the best performance in terms of fuel economy, transmission durability and trouble-free operation.

The formulation of transmission fluids involves technical know-how and decades of field experience. Pinnacle Oil offers a solid history of technical expertise and field success. That is why customers of all sizes rely on National™ brand quality and superior customer service.

Count on Pinnacle Oil for guidance in making the right choice for your specific application.

A range of products available from Pinnacle Oil is formulated and blended to meet the performance specifications of the particular manufacturers' equipment.

National D/M Multi-purpose

This classic and popular fluid for older General Motors (GM) and Ford transmissions is available from Pinnacle Oil. The product offers a cost effective way to service the large number of transmissions currently in use that define an ATF fluid to meet these specific OEM requirements.

Ford Type F

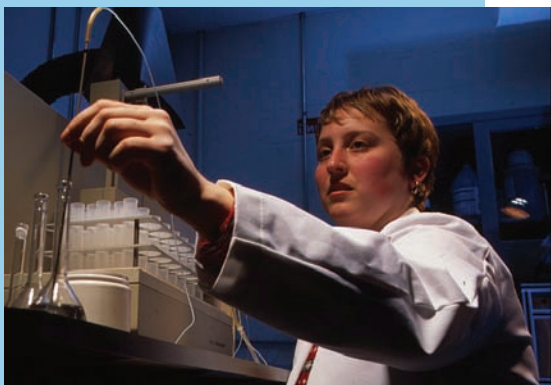

For use in applications recommending fluids conforming to Ford M2C33F specification.

DEXRON®-VI

For use in applications recommending fluids licensed to GM spec GMN 10060. Also suitable for use in all GM vehicles where owners' manuals specify earlier DEXRON® versions: DIII, DIIIG, and DIIIH.

Transmission and Drivetrain Fluids

Available for SAE 10W, 30 and 50. Meets requirements of Caterpillar TO-4, Allison C4, Vickers 35 VQ 25 Pump, and Komatsu Microclutch.

Note: For Continuously Variable Transmission (CVT) applications, use only CVT fluids supplied by the vehicle manufacturer.

DEXRON® is a registered trademark of General Motors.
